GLOBAL TRENDS

A glass bottle of hydrolate with a cork stopper, surrounded by dried lavender flowers on a wooden surface. The bottle is partially filled with a light-colored liquid. The background is a soft, out-of-focus grey.

Growing trend in Supplements for skin increased use of hydrolate, also often called floral or fragrant water. Hydrolate is not only cares about the skin but also saturates your skin with BIO active elements. In modern cosmetology, they are again gaining their popularity due to their unique properties and natural origin.

HOW TO GET HYDROLATE

Herbal raw materials are put on a lattice in the distillation chamber.

Below, distilled water is boiling.

Steam from the boiling water passes through the raw materials, rises and collects in the condensing chamber.

There it, having cooled, forms two fractions: oil and water.

The essential oils – which have aromatic components, and the hydrolate, which contains a small quantity of essential oil and other water-soluble agents from the plant.
